COMPANY A AND SERGT. BAKER WINS HONORS IN GUARD DRILLS

Company A, National Guard of Hawaii, won the prize of $25 for general efficiency, and First Sergeant George W. Baker of Company E won the gold medal for the most efficient non-commissioned officer of the First Infantry, in the competitive drills held at Kapiolani Park yesterday. It is true that Companies I and L, of Maui have not been heard from yet, but Company A has such a high percentage that it is a 50 to 1 shot for first place.

The merits of the different companies were judged by the elaborate system of marking used in the regular army, pitching shelter tents, arrangement of kits, company drills in close and extended order, by spoken commands and by signals, efficiency of non-coms, attendance, and lay-out, combat being the principal points considered. Majors Riley and Rose of the Guard and Captain Johnson, U. S. A., inspector general, were the umpires.

Only about 160 men of what should have been six full companies (targeted out yesterday. However, those who took part in the drills showed keen interest, and made the day a success. The citizen soldiers took care for Kapiolani Park, and on arrival pitched "pup" tents on the polo field. One company after another was then put through its paces, and after lunch, which the men carried in their haversacks, they finished the day with bayonet combat. Each company had one representative in this event, the "dead one" withdrawing the only two remained. The work was new to most of the men, and, carefully protected by heavy pads, mask and gloves, they enjoyed the operations of sticking one's other with the flexible leather tipped bayonets, chalked like foils to register the touches.
